10,000 Trout Kill at Shandaken Portal

By JON POWERS

SHANDAKEN
The decision Tuesday by the New York City Department of Water Supply to close down the Shandaken portal—which, in turn, drastically lowered the water level of the Esopus Creek between Phoenicia and the Ashokan Reservoir and caused a 10,000 trout kill in that part of the stream—has once again prompted sportsmen, politicians and state officials to call for greater local control over the city's water supplies in this region.

The portal, located on the southern end of the 18-mile Shandaken aqueduct, controls the flow of water between the Gilboa Reservoir in Schoharie County and the Ashokan Reservoir in Ulster County. The maximum capacity of the aqueduct and portal is about 600 million gallons a day.

City officials, headquartered in West Shokan, said the portal was closed because the Shandaken tunnel was to have been inspected Wednesday. They also said the water flow was reduced gradually over a 4½ hour period, from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The shutdown, however, wasn't gradual enough, according to conservationists. William Kelly, fisheries manager for Region 3 of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, told the Freeman that he had previously recommended to New York City that any shutdown be accomplished over an eight hour period, and that the DEC be contacted ahead of time so officials could conduct a field examination while the water level drops.

None of which was done this week. "A four-and-a-half hour scaledown just isn't enough," said Kelly. "The water level in the creek simply dropped too quickly and the fish were left stranded in side pools."

Kelly said the fish could have survived with the creek's natural flow of run-off water; it was the rapid and artificial drop in the level that did most of the damage.

According to current regulations, New York City has the right to manipulate the flow of water into the Esopus Creek. Now, said Kelly, DEC attorneys are compiling various reports and data to determine if the regulations can, and should, be rewritten. And the possibility of a lawsuit against the city to prevent a recurrence of Tuesday's tragedy, and to recover any damages, is also under consideration.

While Kelly conceded that closing of the portal was probably necessary, and that the city didn't actually break any laws when it shut the gates, some other sportsmen in Ulster County weren't so gracious.

"They don't give a damn about conservation," fumed Fred Faerber, president of the Ulster County Federated Sportsmen's Club's "all they care about is their silly water. There has been repeated fish damage in the stream over the years because of the city. This isn't the first time it has happened."

Faerber said the dead trout were picked up along a 300-foot stretch of the Esopus on Wednesday. About 36,000 trout inhabit a 12-mile stretch of the creek between Shandaken and the reservoir.

Faerber, along with Charles Schwartz, president of the Phoenicia Sportsman's Club, has been in contact with numerous state officials concerning the fish kill, including Warren McKeon, Region 3 director for the DEC, and environmental conservation commissioner James L. Biggane. "It's time that we take away New York City's right to do what they please with our resources," said Faerber.

Joining them on the inspection and investigation was Jack Minich, of the Shandaken Conservation Commission.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) also called Thursday for a restructuring of rules and regulations governing operation of the aqueduct, the portal and the reservoir.

Bell termed the fish kill by the New York City Department of Water Supply "another example of why New York City can no longer be allowed to retain complete unilateral control over the upstate water shed area. The City of New York is simply not concerned or interested in our upstate community except for using up and wasting our natural resource . . . water," Bell concluded.

Ford Schedules Visit With Nixon

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—President Ford was scheduled to go to Richard Nixon's bedside and spend 20 minutes with the former chief executive today, White House news secretary Ron Nessen said.

"The former President is in the best condition since his operation. A visit from President Ford would be a tremendous boost for his morale," according to Nixons physician, Dr. John Lungren, Nessen told newsmen.

Ford had planned to rest this morning, catching up with sleep after Thursday's flight from Washington and campaigning in Sioux City, Iowa, and Los Angeles.

Nessen said the President decided to take time out from politics for his former chief after telephoning Mrs. Nixon Thursday.

His final go-ahead awaited only assurance from Lungren, that the visit was medically possible and would be helpful to Nixon.

Lungren phoned Ford's personal physician, Dr. William Lukash, at 7:35 a.m. PST today with the go-ahead, Nessen said.

The Secret Service and presidential aides fashioned a new schedule for the President. Ford was to helicopter from an FBI building near his Los Angeles hotel to Long Beach Airport, move by motorcade to the hospital and then by helicopter and Air Force One return to campaigning later in the day in Fresno, Calif., and Portland, Ore.

President's appeal: Throw out big spenders. Story page 24.

Meanwhile, Nixon, still critically ill but reported to be starting a comeback from a long depression, was described today as "alert and feisty" and looking forward to the visit from President Ford.

"I can't think of anything that would do him more good," Pat Nixon said when asked if her husband was well enough for a visit by Ford who replaced and pardoned him.

Ford, campaigning through Southern California for Republican candidates, spent the night in Los Angeles, only 30 miles from Long Beach Memorial Hospital, where Nixon has been on the critical list since Monday because of complications following urgent surgery.

Doctors said Thursday the 61-year-old former president was improving slowly on a "nice stable course," but may still have some "oozing" internal bleeding in his abdomen.

He remained on the critical list into a fourth day, they said, because "potential dangers are still imminent."

Nixon was still under constant care by a team of doctors and nurses for "fear of massive hemorrhage," a hospital spokesman said.

Nessen said both Mrs. Nixon and Lungren had used the word "feisty" to describe Nixon's mood.

Earlier, Lungren told reporters Nixon's "spirits and mental attitude are excellent. He is alert, oriented to everything going on around him and cooperative."

Throughout the weeks of steadily deteriorating health since he resigned office Aug. 9, Nixon needs now to halt the bleeding.

An 'Incredible' Request: Mayone

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON
Thomas F. Mayone, Republican-Conservative candidate for Ulster County Sheriff, reacted sharply today to incumbent Sheriff William B. Martin's request for 183 additional deputies, terming it a "flight from reality."

Charging that "The sheriff's inability to control his own department is now a public fact," Mayone said the sheriff's admission, in his written request for 183 deputies, that "Stressing that his campaign issue oriented," said.

handling any police activities at all is "incredible."

Speaking at his fifth and final press conference of the current campaign, Mayone said he does not expect any need for a major increase in manpower in the Sheriff's Department if elected.

Explaining that he would like to change the status of part time deputies to full time, Mayone said, "We'll probably bring the staff up a little but not this much," referring to the 183 figure.

Stressing that his campaign

Mayone opened the press conference by explaining the final point in his five point "positive program."

Mayone called for a new working relationship between the Sheriff's Department and other area police agencies. "We must have cooperation with the Sheriff's Department, state police, city police and the town police of our county. We all have one goal in mind, that is to provide protection to all the residents of Ulster County," he said.

Mayone reiterated his previous four points, which were:

● To establish rules and regulations for deputies and inmates, establish an effective chain of command, and provide better working conditions, wages and job security for deputies.

● To establish rehabilitation programs in the jail and create the post of a director of rehabilitation.

● To establish an effective criminal investigation unit and patrol unit, train personnel, and to establish substations in outlying areas of the county.

Hinchey Hits Bell's Ethics

SAUGERTIES mind him that other legislators, public interest should be Maurine Hinchey, Democratic-Liberal candidate for the 101st State Assembly District, today bonds.

Further noting that savings accounts are not defined as financial interests, Hinchey continued, "Assemblyman Bell can have his choice: either he is guilty of misrepresentation or he is ignorant of the law."

Part of Bell's ethics statement, according to Hinchey, contained this paragraph: "Any other interests or relationships which I determine in my discretion might reasonably be expected to be particularly affected by legislative action or in the Hinchey, not at all impressed with Bell's denial, said his opponent's reply consisted "of a solid page of rhetoric and one sentence of fact." He accused Bell of "resorting to invective" and "talking all around the real issue."

"On Jan. 2, 1974, Bell filed an ethics statement in Albany, as he was required to do by law," said Hinchey today. "In that statement, the Woodstock Republican staunchly denied that his connections with banking, real estate and insurance firms conflict in any way with his legislative responsibilities.

in answering the same question, disclosed as follows:"

According to Hinchey, Bell did not list the banks, insurance company or telephone company that are among the clients of the St. John, Ronder and Bell law firm.

According to Hinchey, Republican Majority leader John Kingston divulged that his law firm occasionally represents savings banks; Republican John Dunne made a full disclosure of his law firm's clients; and Republican George Farrell revealed that his law firm represents Bankers Trust and New York Telephone Co.

"Why has Mr. Bell listed nothing," asked Hinchey. "Does he consider that he operates under a different code of ethics from other members of the State Legislature?"

Hinchey concluded by saying, "I think it is about time that Assemblyman Bell learn that he must stand up to tough questioning like a man and stop this practice of crying foul every time his own failures are exposed."

Meanwhile, Joseph W. Robertson, president of Kingston Trust

Company and Francis Kugelman Jr., vice president of Heritage Savings, refuted Hinchey's statement that Bell's law firm, St. John, Ronder and Bell had either bank as clients. "We would like to advise you that the Kingston Trust Company has not in the past nor is at present represented by this legal firm," was the way Robertson put it.

Kugelman subscribed to the same statement in regards to his bank, Kingston Trust is represented by the law firm of Rusk, Rusk, Plunket and Wadlin while Heritage (formerly Kingston Savings) is represented by Lloyd R. LeFever.

Hinchey's statement is based on the 1974 Martindale, Hubbell Law Directory which lists Kingston Savings, Kingston Trust and Ulster Savings as "reference clients" of St. John, Ronder and Bell. The New York Public Interest Research Group, a student organization that profiled the legislature earlier this year, reported the same information.

According to Robertson and Kugelman, the "reference" refers to out of town (potential) clients of the law firm in its local dealings. Thus, the banks

Gunfire. on Halloween

KINGSTON
A relatively quiet Halloween was shattered by gunfire in St. Remy Thursday night, as a resident allegedly took a shot at several youths who were on his property, striking two of them. Neither youth was injured seriously.

Elsewhere, Halloween vandalism was reported as relatively minor in most areas of Ulster County, although several windows were reported shattered in Kingston.

Ulster County Sheriff's Deputies charged Martin E. Jordan, 32, of Box 27, St. Remy with first degree reckless endangerment in the alleged shooting incident.

Reported struck by pellets from a shotgun were Anthony Turk, 18, of Ulster Park, and Mark Blowers, 19, of St. Remy. Police said Turk was struck in the elbow and foot and that Blowers was struck in the shoulder. Neither was hospitalized, according to deputies.

Jordan was arraigned following the $310 incident and later released on $1,000 bail pending a reappearance in court on Nov. 12.

In Kingston, windows were reported broken in five locations on Broadway, Andrew Street and Hasbrouck Avenue, including the Rondout National Bank.

City police also received a report of a group of people carrying baseball bats who were taking candy from children. A sign at the corner of Broadway and Staples Street was reported uprooted.

One city resident reported finding an egg in the gas tank of his car, and numerous egg throwing incidents were reported.

Ellenville Village Police also reported windows broken, but said problems were minor. Other area police agencies reported the usual Halloween mischief, with no major incidents.

Bathgate Proposal...Recent Vote May Cause Reversal

By CARL GRAHAM

SAUGERTIES' If at least two trustees change their minds, the Saugerties Village Board might reverse its controversial Aug. 5 decision to furnish water and sewage service for the Bathgate development.

Mayor Vernon "Joe" Benjamin, who abstained when the board voted 5-1 in favor of the Bathgate proposal, told the Freeman: "In case of a tie, I would vote against it." (The board's next meeting is Monday Nov. 4.)

Benjamin said he abstained on the first vote because he felt that a comprehensive study of the village's Blue Mountain Reservoir water supply should have been made before any action was taken on the Bathgate request.

"There hasn't been a study since 1966," Benjamin noted. "The reservoir needs repairs. The dam needs repairing and it needs dredging."

One trustee who has no intention of changing her mind is Mrs. Erika Hinchey, the only one to vote against the proposal to furnish water and sewer service for the 22-acre development across Route 212 from the northbound Thruway entrance just west of the village line.

"I'm still opposed," Mrs. Hinchey said. "Our prime concern should be to build up vacant areas in the village and try to attract some kind of shopping center inside the village limits. There are any number of people who don't have cars to go shopping, and many senior citizens would find it difficult to shop in any outlying area."

Mrs. Hinchey was instrumental in getting petitions signed which led to a referendum on Oct. 22, saying that the board's action had been taken without a public hearing.

Nearly 800 village residents turned out to express their opinions on the board's decision, turning thumbs down on it by a 638-157 vote. After the polls had closed Benjamin, noting that the referendum was only advisory and not legally binding on the board, said the matter would come up for discussion at the next regular board meeting Nov. 4.

Only three of the five trustees who voted in favor of furnishing services to the Bathgate development could be contacted.

Trustees Anthony "Cal" Hackett and Robert Gardner could not be reached. Trustee Joseph Martin and Trustee Richard Underhill, the only one of the five who did not make a trip to Birmingham, Ala., as guests of Bathgate to view a similar shopping center there, declined to comment.

Trustee Walter Keefe, who introduced the resolution at the Aug. 5 meeting, said: "It's a difficult problem. I will have to talk it over with the rest of the board members."

A storm of opposition arose in the village when the board's decision became generally known. Village businessmen, a group calling itself the Concerned Citizens of Saugerties, and the Saugerties Business Association all spoke up in opposition.

Opponents concentrated most of their ire on the water aspects of the Bathgate proposal, Mrs. Hinchey said: "The water the board proposed to sell in this case is not surplus water. It is water that is needed by the village residents for normal sanitary purposes and for fire protection."

Supporters cited engineering studies by Brinnier and Larios, village engineers, saying the village's 1.81 million gallons a day from the Blue Mountain Reservoir was enough to handle the Bathgate development, which would need an estimated 150,000 gallons a day. The village now uses about half its supply, engineers said.

The emphatic referendum vote has in effect put pressure on the five supporters of the Bathgate proposal to consider changing their minds. What will happen Monday night remains to be seen, but there will undoubtedly be a number of close observers on hand to witness the Bathgate proposal, Mrs. Hinchey said.

Priest Murder Probe Continues

PATERSON, N.J. (UPI) — Francis A. English were Diego Colon, 24, and Juan Colon, 21, no relation. The pair was ordered held without bail by Municipal Court Magistrate William Rosenberg.

No police bulletin has been issued for the two additional suspects "because we hope to apprehend them shortly," Det. Sgt. Philip Terrone said.

The suspects, whom he declined to identify, were being sought in a wide-ranging manhunt by the police department's entire 40-man detective bureau, Terrone said.

A yellow Lincoln Continental, in which the four had allegedly fled the rectory of St. Boniface Church, had been recovered, Terrone said the car was seen leaving the scene after the slaying, carried out in a robbery of some $100 in church bingo proceeds.

The arrests resulted from a confidential tip provided to police by an unidentified informant, according to Terrone.

Diego Colon, a mechanic, was arrested late Wednesday night at his home and Juan Colon was arrested Thursday after he tried unsuccessfully to flee police by racing across the roof of his home, police said.

Juan Colon, who lived about eight blocks from the rectory where Father English was found slain early Tuesday, was surrounded and finally captured after a fire department hook and ladder truck was brought to the roof where Colon fled, Terrone said.

Police said Father English had operated daily bingo games at the parish, and robbery was the probable motive of the alleged attack.

A spokesman for the diocese said more than 50 priests had been invited to take part in a funeral mass for Father English Saturday at St. Boniface.

A Rockefeller and Wilson had been run "with an arrogance Thursday night, Carey and Wilson engaged in another debate —being heard live over WINS radio in a face-to-face confrontation at Fordham University Law School. The debate was enlivened by sarcastic references to the other candidate's positions —at one point Wilson called a Carey proposal "assinine" and Carey charged Wilson had failed to solve problems despite his claim of experience, noting at one point "if that's what your experience produces."

Under the format, the two were given one minute to respond to a series of questions sent in by listeners or to rebut the other candidate's response. Carey claimed he would open a government and said the time when state police were state under former Gov. Nelson denied additional funds.

At a news conference Thursday at the Albany County Airport, she said the latest New York Daily News poll showed that she was taking votes from both major party candidates and was not playing merely a spoiler role.

Many political observers had speculated that the political novice, with barely a fraction of the financial support of Javits, a three-term Republican, and Democrat Ramsey Clark, would mainly draw Republican votes away from Javits, helping Clark.

A Daily News straw poll published Thursday showed Mrs. Keating, the widow of a Marine major killed in Vietnam, with 18 per cent of the vote. Javits had 47 per cent, while Clark had 35 per cent.

According to the poll, Mrs. Keating gained 3 per cent over a previous sampling about 10 days ago, while Javits lost 1 per cent and Clark dropped 2 per cent.

"If the voters of New York can be convinced that I do have a chance of winning and they vote the courage of their convictions, then I can be elected," the 36-year-old mother of five said.

Masked Man at Kent State

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Attorneys for eight former Ohio National Guardsmen accused of firing on demonstrating college students 3½ years ago say a mysterious masked man was on the Kent State University campus the day of the incident.

Defense attorneys said the masked man appeared in several photographs Filo took immediately following the 13-second burst of guard gunfire. Filo, who said he was "just standing there" when some Guardsmen wheeled and fired toward demonstrators, said the incident seemed so bizarre, "I thought they were firing blanks."

John Filo, who won a Pulitzer Prize for a photograph he took of a girl mourning beside the body of a slain student, was questioned closely by defense attorneys Thursday about the appearance of "a man in a white mask."

"As I brought my camera to my eye, I saw a bullet strike a metal sculpture and saw bark fly from a tree by the sculpture. Then I realized live ammunition was being used," Filo said.

The former Guardsmen are charged in U.S. District Court with violating the civil rights of their victims.

Other witnesses called Thursday were Doug Moore, a Kent State news bureau photographer, and Richard Harris Jr., a student who took several pictures of events leading up to the shootings.

Moore told prosecutors he heard the firing while he was "looking around for more activity (to photograph) among the students."

"I turned and glanced," he said. "I figured it was something that wouldn't happen—that they wouldn't shoot—so I kept my attention on the students running away."

Moore said he did not hear a single shot touch off the rest of the firing.

We think 1926 service is a great way of selling you a 1979 Ford.

Sure. The 1979 Ford is still a gleam in some designer's eye. But look at it this way. Our business is built on repeat business. So if we ever hope to sell you a '79 Ford, let's face it... we've got to do more than simply make you a good deal on one of our '75's.

We've got to treat you right each and every time you come in. In other words... we've got to give you the same kind of refreshingly old-fashioned service your grandfather's generation got from its Ford Dealers way back in the 1920's.

Of course it's a tough act to follow. But over the years, we've been knocking ourselves out trying. And you know what? It's been paying off. People have been coming back for their second, third and even fourth and fifth Fords.

Why don't you see what the good ol' days were all about. 23 skiddoo on down to your 1926 Ford Dealer. Who knows? He just might end up selling you his 1982 Ford.

Bell: 'Every Vote Counts'

WOODSTOCK
"The old adage that every vote counts will never be more true than in this upcoming election, if upstaters intend to maintain control of the State Legislature," Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R, C-101st District) said in a statement released Thursday.

"The toughest foe of Republican candidates in this election may be voter apathy," Bell said. "A look at past elections will show that the failure of registered voters to vote on election day has defeated candidates many times. I am sure that is true whether the people were Republicans or Democrats."

"But our concern right now is to see that this state government remains in the hands of responsible, fiscally sound leaders from the upstate area during this difficult period of time," said Bell.

"Unfortunately," Bell said, "it has been stressed over and over in the past month that voters have been turned off by events that have taken place in Washington in the past several years. You and I both know that staying away from the polls and giving up our right to choose our elected officials is certainly not the way to solve these problems."

"We must do everything in our power," said Bell, "to see that upstate voters vote on election day. It is now a time when we need citizen participation more than we've ever needed it before."

Bell stressed that upstaters must maintain a majority in the legislature to protect the upstate community. He also pointed out that "a switch of only 949 votes in four assembly districts in 1968 would have enabled the Democrats to control the assembly. As has been so often said, it just takes a vote here and there to change the course of an election and the course of history. We face a real danger this year if we do not make an extra strong effort to get out the vote."

"The total vote cast in the gubernatorial election is in the millions," said Bell, "yet nearly two million registered voters failed to go to the polls in the 1968 gubernatorial election and nearly 1.8 million registered voters failed to show up in 1970. We cannot allow this to happen in 1974 if the upstate point of view is to be protected in the state legislature."

Bell listed other examples in which one or two votes per election district changed political history:

• In 1884, less than one vote per precinct in New York State would have elected Republican James G. Blaine President over Democrat Grover Cleveland.

• In 1916, less than one vote per election district in the State of California lost the presidential election for Republican Charles Evans Hughes to Democrat Woodrow Wilson.

• In 1928, Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected Governor of New York by a margin of about two votes per election district.

• In 1948, a shift of one vote per precinct in California and Ohio and two or three votes per precinct in Illinois would have made Thomas Dewey President.

• In 1950, Michigan Republicans lost their battle to replace Democrat Governor G. Mennen Williams by only 1,154 votes out of 1,880,000. Just one vote more in a third of Michigan's 4,360 election districts would have swung the state into the Republican column.

• In 1954, Republican Senator Irving Ives lost the Governorship of New York to Averell Harriman, Democrat, by a fraction more than one vote per election district.

• In 1954, in New Jersey Clifford Case was elected Senator by an average of one vote per election district more than his opponent.

• In 1954, Republican nominees for the U.S. Senate from Montana and Oregon were defeated by one vote per election district or less. If they had won the Republicans would have retained control of the Senate in the Second Session of the 84th Congress.

Bell concluded: "Once more I urge each and every voter to go to the polls on November 5. So often we criticize our political leaders and our candidates. But there can be no meaningful criticism of our governmental structure or our political system if the voters do not participate and exercise their right at the polls on Nov. 5."

Hinchey: 'Bill Is Reprehensible'

SAUGERTIES
Maurice Hinchey, Democratic candidate for State Assembly, today termed Assemblyman H. Clark Bell's sponsorship of a recreational lands bill "morally reprehensible," and accused his opponent of being "clearly guilty" in introducing the bill of "working against the real interests of the people."

An Endorsement

SAUGERTIES
Robert Wynne, president of District Council #8 United Cement, Lime, and Gypsum Workers, AFL-CIO, has announced endorsement of Maurice Hinchey, Democratic candidate for State Assembly. Hinchey faces Republican incumbent H. Clark Bell of Woodstock.

Council #8 includes Local 50 (Marquette), Local 53 (Alpha), and Local 129 (Lehigh).

Hinchey expressed his appreciation of the endorsement saying: "Having worked in a cement plant myself, I feel a real sense of kinship with the men of Council #8. They can be sure that I understand their problems and will work for their best interests in Albany. And I am convinced that I will be able to do a particularly effective job for the people of Ulster County under the leadership of our next governor, Hugh Carey."

Noting that the bill was voted down 107 to 12 in the Assembly and then tabled, Hinchey said, "Not even his (Bell's) fellow Republicans would stomach something so blatantly serving the interests of the land speculators."

Hinchey quoted one Republican as saying it was a "rich man's bill," and another Republican as saying the bill would allow land speculators to make a "tremendous windfall profit." Another legislator said, "the bill is a rip-off for the land speculators and probably one of the most blatant bills that we have had before the legislature this year," according to Hinchey.

"What kind of bill was it that could call forth such strong language, even from fellow Republicans?" said Hinchey. "It was a bill that would have given to owners of 50 acres or more a lower tax assessment if the land were reserved for recreational use. At first glance, it looks like a bill to preserve open lands and encourage the development of recreational facilities. As a matter of fact, it was in this guise that Bell presented it to the legislature."

Hinchey said Bell's bill contained no provision for tax penalties if a landowner decided to self, and as a lawyer with withdraw part of his land from the proposed program. "It would have allowed the land speculator free use of tax money at the expense of the average taxpayer," he said.

Hinchey said the omission of the penalty provision was not an oversight on Bell's part, explaining that the bill was defeated previously in 1973 and that Bell knew what was wrong with it. "It was a knowing and deliberate omission," said Hinchey, "designed to permit land speculators to hold on to their valuable lands without paying fair taxes until such time as they saw fit to make a killing. As a real estate operator himself, and as a lawyer with real estate clients, Bell's sponsorship of such legislation is nothing short of reprehensible."

Hinchey concluded by saying the bill "clearly violated the intent of the law with regard to conflict of interest," and said that the law must be made stronger to deal with such situations. "Assemblyman Bell is probably guilty of no crime with in the strict legal sense. But he is clearly guilty, in the case of this bill, of working against the real interests of the people of this state. He has proved himself to be an easily corruptible man in a corrupt system."

Thieu in Unity Call, Warns of Red Takeover

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu, claiming the support of the Ford administration, pleaded today for his political life and promised to fight corruption at every level of his troubled government.

Faced with the worst anti-government demonstrations in eight years, he also offered to rewrite restrictive press laws and ease a ban on opposition parties.

"If you topple the current legal, constitutional regime in South Vietnam, you're leaving the way open for a speedy Communist domination," Thieu said in a speech to the nation.

Shaken by clashes in which at least 60 Roman Catholic militants and 30 policemen were injured, he called for unity and blamed the violence on Communist lackeys.

In a 35-minute speech marking South Vietnam's National Day, Thieu derided his opposition again and again as "underground Communist cadres, henchmen of international colonialists and pacifists."

He said his embattled government would "preserve security and public order to the maximum and effectively protect the life and property of the people."

Vietnam Press, the government news agency, tried to improve Thieu's image today by publishing a report saying President Ford cabled the embattled leader in support of the Saigon government.

The agency quoted Ford as saying "the American people continue to support your government and the people of the Republic of Vietnam in their determination to resist aggression and in their dedication to a lasting and just peace."

Thieu's speech failed to convince the protestors who turned Saigon into a city under siege Thursday to retreat from their demand for the president's resignation.

Militant Buddhists called for street riots and the overthrow of Thieu, saying his speech "demonstrated that the authorities no longer deserve to remain in positions of leadership."

"We call on students, soldiers, policemen and all elements of the population to rise together and eliminate the military dictatorship," the Buddhists said in a statement.

Catholics postponed today's scheduled anti-Thieu demonstrations in the capital, but announced plans for a huge protest march in Saigon on Saturday.

The Viet Cong, which has said it might negotiate with a successor if Thieu is overthrown, has virtually called off fighting, apparently to await the president's fate.

War Topic at 'Gate Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Haldeman's lawyers, brought objection kept Magruder from demonstrators during the 1972 presidential campaign. Magruder returned today for his fourth and probably final day as a witness.

House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman have indicated that national and domestic security considerations may be part of their defense in the Watergate cover-up trial.

But moments later Strickler got Magruder to acknowledge there was a legitimate need for intelligence gathering about and now with the Office of Management and Budget, would testify next.

Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell; H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, who were Nixon's top two aides; former Assistant Attorney General Robert C. Mardian; and re-election lawyer Kenneth W. Parkinson are on trial for conspiracy.

It was learned that Mardian privately asked Judge John J. Sirica to sever his case from the others, saying his chief lawyer, David G. Bress, is ill.

Some of the lawyers also are discussing alternatives to direct testimony of Nixon, critically ill in Long Beach, Calif. Ehrlichman contends that Nixon's testimony is essential to his defense.

Haldeman raised the issue of national domestic security considerations during last year's Senate Watergate hearings. It is believed his lawyers will contend that Haldeman believed the intelligence-gathering would be done legally.

Kissinger to See Shah

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped briefly in mountainous Afghanistan today on his way to Tehran for crucial oil talks with the Shah of Iran.

Kissinger held talks with President Mohammad Daoud today, but Daoud is seeking moral support from the United States to buttress his independence.

Diplomatic officials said Kissinger assured the president of America's interest in the maintenance of a free and independent Afghanistan.

The secretary of state flew to Kabul from Islamabad, Pakistan, the final stop in a three nation, fence-mending tour of the Asian subcontinent.

The secretary put off a final decision on Pakistan's request for new shipments of modern arms, but Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto still said he was "very happy" with the visit.

Kissinger and Bhutto negotiated an agreement for a shipment of about 100,000 tons of surplus wheat to help Pakistan meet a persistent food crisis.

Arab Leaders in Huddle

By United Press International

French. Scores of Arab leaders gathered in Algiers today for independence celebrations and informal talks about Israel's adamant refusal to negotiate with the Palestinian guerrillas.

Presidents and kings, sheikhs and sultans attended ceremonies marking the start 20 years ago of Algeria's successful war for independence from the French.

Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Hafez Assad of Syria, King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat were among the 100 foreign leaders and delegates at the celebration.

Diplomatic sources said the leaders would undoubtedly discuss issues raised at this week's summit in Rabat, Morocco, which picked the PLO to establish an independent Palestinian state on Jordanian land that Israel might return.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, however, repeated Thursday night that his government will not negotiate with the PLO — even if Jordan's King Hussein represents the commandos.

You Ought to Know This About Your Assemblyman

BELL VOTED AND HELPED TO DEFEAT BILLS THAT WOULD HAVE HELPED YOU:

Bell voted against a bill TO EXEMPT HOME HEATING OIL from the 4% sales tax. IT WOULD HAVE SAVED THE HOMEOWNERS OF NEW YORK STATE FORTY MILLION DOLLARS!

Bell voted TO INCREASE THE GASOLINE TAX from seven cents to eight cents per gallon.

Bell voted TO FREEZE TELEPHONE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENTS at the 1974 level, EXEMPTING NEW TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT FROM LOCAL PROPERTY TAXES. (His law firm represents the telephone company.)

Bell SPONSORED a bill to OPEN UP RECREATIONAL LAND AREAS TO THE PLUNDER OF LAND SPECULATORS.

Bell SPONSORED a so-called "No Fault" insurance bill that robbed you of the right to sue for full damages in exchange for a $2 or $4 reduction in liability rates. OF COURSE, YOU'RE NOW PAYING MORE FOR COLLISION AND OTHER INSURANCE.

Bell voted against (1) an assembly resolution to end empty-chair voting; (2) a resolution to open committee votes and business to public scrutiny; (3) a resolution to prohibit ASSEMBLYMEN FROM VOTING ON ITEMS IN WHICH THEY MIGHT HAVE CONFLICTS OF INTEREST. In short, he voted against all reform measures that might have brought an archaic state legislature into the 20th century.

Bell voted TO INCREASE the lieutenant-governor's salary from $45,000 to $60,000 and then voted AGAINST making it a full-time job!

Bell voted to create ADDITIONAL TAX LOOPHOLES for wealthy part-time residents of the state.

Bell voted AGAINST restricting FRAUDULENT PYRAMID SALES SCHEMES.

Bell even voted against a bill that would have imposed meaningful penalties on THOSE VIOLATING HEALTH REGULATIONS!

40th Senatorial-Schermerhorn

A state senator who very early recognized the gut issue of these recession/inflationary times is seeking reelection in the 40th Senatorial District. Ulster Countyites have become well aware that Richard Schermerhorn is one legislator who has stressed the cry of more and more jobs in this area, and is working hard in Albany to increase employment in his district.

The senator also has shown himself to be a political maverick, who was never afraid to stand up to the power brokers holding sway in the state's capital, evidenced by his consistent fight against high state budgets, the construction of the exorbitant Albany Mall and frivolous expenditures in the State Education Department. His shoot-from-the-hip style and utter candor are as refreshing as they are uncommon. His seniority in office has also placed him as chairman of the vital committee of Civil Service, Pensions, and Taylor Law. The senator knows the problem of labor as well as agriculture.

In seeking his third term, the Republican-Conservative candidate pledges an all-out effort to lure industry to the Hudson Valley. His proposals for the future of Stewart Airport are productive and progressive, envisioning a regional airport as well as an industrial complex. He also was a leader in the fight against the Metropolitan Transportation Authority's attempt to make Stewart Field a major jetport, and in the process condemn countless homes and drive out the homeowners. Schermerhorn is a man who fights for his constituency and deserves its vote.

Supreme Court . . . Staley

After serving for 14 years with distinction on the bench of New York State's Supreme Court, Justice Ellis Staley merits reelection to his second term. The jurist, the Republican candidate, is assigned to the Third Department of the Appellate Division and has drawn praise from the New York State Bar Association, which termed him "well qualified" for his work on the bench. Justice Staley has conducted himself with judicial acumen coupled with realistic insight into today's complex problems. His reelection would be an asset to every voter in the state.

Problems of the Elderly

For many, the "golden years" are sprinkled with happy memories, grandchildren and that long-awaited trip to some exotic place. It can be a time to wind up a long career and enjoy the fruits of one's own labor.

However, other senior citizens find life fraught with economic and social pitfalls. It is a situation that is attracting more and more federal attention.

According to statistics from the U.S. Census Bureau, in 1970 there were more than 20 million Americans in the 65-and-older bracket. That figure is even higher today.

With many families unable or unwilling to support them, the elderly must rely heavily upon government financial aid programs such as medicare and Social Security. And here is where much of the problem arises. Inflation running at about 11.5 per cent annually places a great strain not only on the generally massive aid projects to meet their goals, but on the generally fixed income of the average aged individual.

This has been clearly brought out in reports that many of our senior citizens are forced to buy clothes at flea markets and in many cases are forced to eat pet foods to ward off hunger.

With the median annual income for elderly couples last computed in 1972 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics at $5,513, there is little, if any, money left over at the end of the month for savings. They are limited to bare necessities.

Federal attempts to raise the income of the elderly have taken numerous forms. The most extensive one is, of course, Social Security which has been in effect since the 1930's. However, Social Security is growing at such an explosive rate that it is estimated there won't be enough money collected in the future to pay off all the benefits people have been promised. Congress has liberalized benefits so rapidly that all the fat has been wrung out of the trust funds set up to provide reserves to help finance the system.

As public awareness of the problems encountered by the older population grows, more federal reforms will doubtless be instated to enrich and enliven old age. Whether society can afford them is another matter.

However, it is imperative that Congress find the solution, without delay, to lift many American senior citizens out of the poverty level.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger will hold crucial discussions in Tehran this weekend with the shah of Iran, who has the power to bring the stratospheric cost of oil back down to earth.

The shah has become one of the world's most recklessly greedy, unbelievably wealthy rulers. He spearheaded the move to quadruple oil prices and he still isn't satisfied. He has hinted that the oil-producing nations should charge even higher prices.

His more responsible neighbor, Saudi Arabia's King Faisal, is worried that orbiting oil costs could endanger the industrial West. He has written a private letter to the shah, warning that neither kingdom will last if the West is plunged into economic chaos by exorbitant oil charges. To add emphasis to the warning, King Faisal delivered his letter to Tehran in person.

Saudi Arabia and Iran produce almost half of the oil that is pumped by the 13 nations of the oil cartel. Thus, they could break the oil squeeze by acting together to cut prices.

At the lower levels, representatives of the two oil kingdoms are discussing a joint price reduction. But the shah keeps talking about higher, not lower prices.

He is determined to use his enormous oil wealth to make himself a world power. Last year alone, he spent $4 billion for U.S. military equipment. This has made Iran the No. 1 military power in the strategic Persian Gulf.

Kissinger has gone to Tehran, according to State Dept. sources, prepared to treat the shah as a military ally and protector of U.S. interests in the gulf. Kissinger is counting heavily upon the shah's good will to get lower oil prices.

This is contrary to the advice of at least one top policy-maker, Treasury Secretary William Simon, who fears Kissinger has underestimated the shah's greed and ambition. If the shah refuses to bring down his prices, say our sources, Simon wants to retaliate by quadrupling the price Iran must pay for U.S. arms and wheat.

Not even the Central Intelligence Agency, which saved the shah's throne in 1957, has had any influence with him on oil prices. The late CIA chief Allen Dulles flew to Rome and plotted with the shah's sister, Princess Ashraf, to oust Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadeq. This prevented the shah's overthrow 14 years ago.

He showed his gratitude by opening Iran to the CIA. He permitted the CIA to install radio and telemetry interceptors, longrange radar devices and other high-powered electronic equipment in his country.

After the Greek military junta was ousted earlier this year, the CIA pulled many of its facilities out of Athens and moved them to Tehran. The CIA also works closely with SAVAK, the shah's secret police.

Yet the CIA has lost the hold it once had on the shah. "He was our baby," a CIA source told us, "but now he has grown up."

It remains a mystery, meanwhile, how the shah has always managed to work his way in Washington. He has been able to get just about what he wants from the United States. "It has been a one-way street," a Cabinet officer said.

One alarming possibility, never fully proved, is that the shah has paid off top American officials. Here are the allegations, which have been vigorously denied:

A former Justice Dept. official, who has travelled extensively in Iran, reported to the Senate Watergate Committee that the shah had delivered huge sums to former President Nixon. He contacted the official who described his sources to us in confidence. "I am certain in my own mind," he wrote us, "that if their names came out, they would be in prison or dead within 24 hours." We can say only that his sources are high in the Iranian government. The Watergate committee never got around to investigating the charges.

We spent six months checking into reports that the shah had funneled money into the Nixon campaign by way of Mexico. We made calls to Tehran, Geneva, Bonn, Mexico City and other faraway places. Separate sources, all of them anti-shah and therefore suspect, told us that the shah had transferred more than $1 million from his personal, numbered accounts in Switzerland to the Banco de Londres y Mexico in Mexico City for delivery to the Nixon campaign. Swiss banking sources confirmed that the shah had sent money to Mexico from the Schweizerische Bankgesellschaft. We could get no reliable confirmation, however, that the money ever reached anyone connected with Nixon.

A former Hubert Humphrey aide told us he had been approached by an emissary of the shah during the 1968 presidential campaign. The emissary asked whether Humphrey would like a campaign contribution from the shah, but the approach was rejected.

An exiled Iranian leader named Kyber Khan testified behind closed Senate doors in 1963 that the shah had given million-dollar contributions to a list of distinguished Americans. Khan produced photostats of secret Swiss bank records. Senate investigators were never able to confirm the charges and it is impossible that the records had been forged.

Washington, meanwhile, is continuing its policy of placating the shah while he hurts the United States with his oil squeeze.

Michigan Sweep

By ROWLAND EVANS and
ROBERT NOVAK

DETROIT — The wreckage of Richard Nixon's new Republican majority swollen by blue-collar Democrats is so complete here that Gov. William Milliken, an extraordinarily popular liberal Republican, faces possible extinction Nov. 5.

That Milliken may barely survive the lust for revenge against Republicans is a mark of the unique respect he commands, plus Michigan's habit of widespread ticket-splitting.

But Milliken's popularity may be insufficient — a severe blow to Republicans here and nationally. In that case, not only would Michigan Democrats control the governorship and the legislature simultaneously for the first time in modern history, but Democrats probably would find themselves occupying the governorship in the seven most populous states. Moreover, the decimated progressive wing of the Republican party would have suffered another irreparable casualty.

The oppressive anti-Republican tide in President Ford's state has to be seen to be believed, and nowhere more so than Macomb County, a largely blue-collar suburb of Detroit.

Two years ago, infuriated by the prospect of forced school busing and frightened by McGovernism, Macomb County working-class Democrats defected in huge numbers. But busing is no longer an issue there and McGovernism is dead. That was crystal clear in door-to-door campaigning last week by Sander Levin, the youthful-looking 43-year-old Democratic candidate. Labor lawyer Levin, a former state senator and state party chairman, was beaten by a mere 44,000 votes by Milliken in 1970. But last week he was on easy street in Macomb County exploiting the anti-Republican mood.

"Taxes," replied an elderly auto worker when Levin asked what was troubling him. "Taxes and prices and housing. Why is Ford putting Rockefeller in as Vice President? Does he think the richest man in the world is going to stop up the tax loopholes?"

Levin, cashing in on anger against taxes and inflation, may have gone one step too far. He is pushing Proposition C on next Tuesday's ballot which would end the sales tax on food and medicine. Levin claims he can make the $200 million revenue loss by more efficiency in state government, but even leaders of his own party publicly disagree.

Levin's refusal to specify how he would make up that loss in revenue is cutting into his credibility and exposing him to charges of demagoguery. That precisely fits Milliken's strategy of fighting the anti-Republican tide by campaigning as a proven fiscal expert who has reduced state taxes almost $500 million the past two years while keeping his budget balanced.

In normal times, Milliken's mastery of politics and low-key image as a Republican most Democrats find it hard not to like would assure him a second full term. Campaigning with an easy smile in another part of Macomb County last week, Milliken gently reminded anyone who would listen that Michigan under Republican Milliken has had nothing in common with the U.S.A. under Republican Nixon. Milliken kept distant from the White House for Nixon's last two years, building the contrast between Lansing and Washington.

But such tactics are undercut by the drastic shakedown of the automotive industry now closing in on him. Last week, Chrysler warned about closing down a plant employing 5,000 workers and Ford and General Motors released their own dire production forecasts.

Thus, next Tuesday's decision will test whether the popularity of a Republican governor with even a 70 per cent performance rating after six years in office can survive an anti-Republican cataclysm. The polls strongly hint that the size of the vote will tell. The authoritative Detroit News poll gives Levin an edge if all those working class Democrats who voted Republican in 1972 actually go to the polls. But among voters "most likely" to vote, Milliken has a slender margin (running far ahead of his party, of course).

For the Republican party, the loss of Milliken would wipe out another of the dwindling band of moderate Republican governors able to win elections in liberal Democratic states, a cause of deep concern here even to some Democrats.

A lifelong Democrat who holds a high union position told us: "If it weren't for my conscience, I'd vote for Milliken for one reason. I don't like a one-party situation here or anywhere." But that could be precisely the situation in Michigan after next Tuesday.

Growing Pains and Big John

"I certainly empathize with President Ford's situation. I mean, I've been trying to lose six extra pounds for ages, too!"

Big John would have been 91. He maintained the china blue eyes, the leonine Irish kisser and the snowy hair neatly parted until the end. I suspect that he was willing to depart, because he had seen everything on this side of the shore.

He was a serious and knowledgeable man, but he was funny, too. My father doubled anything that was good. He was big and chesty and, when he had a feverish cold, the doctor said, "Take two Bromo Quinine and a shot of whiskey with hot water and lemon."

Big John popped four pills and went to bed with a fifth of Schenley. The lemon and hot water lasted two rounds. When he fell out of bed, the house rocked. He hinted that Mamma pushed him.

No matter what he said, Mamma looked at the ceiling and murmured, "May God forgive you." It drove the old man nuts because there was no response to it.

As a police lieutenant, he did more favors for more people than I could count. He wrote letters to plant and factory managers and got jobs for men who never said "Thank you." When I grew, he hinted (man-to-man) that he had broken one stone commandment so many times it was like talcum in his hands.

"Take a tip from me," he said sternly. "Stay away from the goddam women. They'll get you in nothing but trouble." He was fascinating to women, but he liked them 180 pounds and up. I couldn't understand their fascination for him because he had a big nose. In the summer, he wore a stiff-brimmed straw hat, a Palm Beach suit and brown gleaming shoes.

When he strode down the boardwalk at Atlantic City, arms swinging like a drum major, he was a sight. John Michael was all man, perhaps too much so, because he had little understanding of women. And yet the little he understood was sufficient to help them understand him.

His favorite music was opera. Everything else, except for Strauss, was "trash." At the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, Big John sold his soul to Giovanni Martinelli, a tenor, for free seats in return for leading a claque. At police headquarters, he enjoyed being called "The Diplomat." The chief was brusque and semiliterate. Big John wrote the general orders, devised policy, and tried to keep deputy chiefs, such as John Underwood and Harry Walsh, from choking the chief. And vice versa.

We always knew payday, because he brought in a big porterhouse steak and a half of a large apple pie. "Jennie," he would say in the manner of a king conferring knighthood on a slave, "I will cook the dinner."

Mom groaned. When he made dinner, Johnny, Adele and Jim were hopping. "Get me the big knife." "Where the hell is the sharpening stone?" "Who's making the salad? Don't forget to wipe the bowl with garlic." "Where's that dinner platter?" "Mash the potatoes, please."

He overate. Two hundred and fifty-four pounds makes a noise falling out of bed. When he ate too much, he pounced his belly and moaned, "Get me the Bromo."

Once a week, ready or not, we had to be ready for "a good cleaning out." He mixed a concoction of Epsom salts and cider. We stood in line and cried. "Nothing like a good cleaning out," he said. There were five of us and we were one-bathroom Irish.

On dates, the boys were ordered to treat a girl "as though she was your sister." I got smacked for saying, "If they're like Adele, I'm not going." Mom was free with an open hand, too.

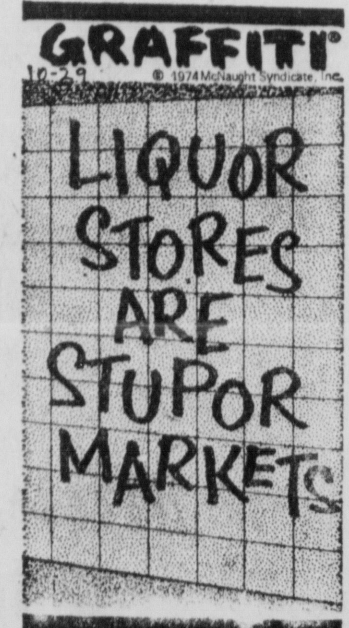

Saturday morning was dust-and-clean day. On warm mornings, you could hear the other boys on the block playing stickball. Not us. We had to dust furniture, polish everything, sand the ring from the bathtub, and shop for groceries. "Don't lose the change."

When I worked on the "New York News," Big John switched to "The Mirror." When I worked on "The Mirror," he and Mom returned to "The News." When I was an editor at "Collier's," they bought a subscription to the "Saturday Evening Post."

I wrote book after book. As my father finished each one, he nodded and smiled. No comment. Then I went to Israel and researched "The Day Christ Died." Big John read it and held a finger up. "This," he said for the first time, "is a masterpiece."

It was dedicated to my mother. In a way, I got even with the great man. He had to read it aloud to her, 10 pages at a time. She was blind...

MEETING THE SPEAKER—Nicholas B. Angell (L), Democratic candidate for Congress from New York's 25th Congressional District, discusses economic conditions and policies with Speaker of the House Carl Albert during a recent trip to Washington. Angell, a Westchester County attorney, faces incumbent Republican Hamilton Fish Jr. and Free Libertarian Sanford Cohen in Tuesday's election.

Teacher Group Endorses Angell

LAKELAND The executive committee of the more than 400-member Lakeland Federation Teachers, Westchester County, one of the largest teacher groups in the 25th Congressional District, has endorsed Democratic candidate for Congress, Nicholas B. Angell. Angell and Free Libertarian candidate Sanford Cohen seek the seat now occupied by GOP Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. Robert Kaplan described the committee's position saying, "Angell knows that the property tax can no longer support a modern and progressive educational system. The future of our children will be decided in the political arena. Angell has shown himself best able to approach this problem realistically.

"Extreme and serious consequences will result if the property tax is not eliminated as a major source of funding for education," Kaplan continued. "I know Angell is committed to both reforming taxes and supporting education. That is why he deserves our support. Our representatives in Washington, as well as in Albany, are the answer to the problem," he said.

Angell's major positions include property tax reform which will not be accomplished without federal legislation and funding. The property tax as a base for funding education is breaking the back of the middle income family. It is regressive in the sense that it hits hardest those least able to pay. This burden can be substantially reduced without interfering with local control of the communities' schools," he concluded.

Trades Unit for Schermerhorn

CORNWALL State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th Dist.) has received the endorsement of the Ulster County Building and Construction Trades Council.

The council gave its endorsement because it said it believes "the senator has proven himself to be a true friend of labor... concerned with the blue collar worker." The senator said that if you put a man to work for a 40-hour week and send him home with a liveable wage, many of our social and economic problems will be solved. In order to do this, "we must move ahead with these proposed projects and create the jobs to put these men back to work," he said.

In his presentation to the Labor Group, Schermerhorn directed his remarks to the pending projects in the Hudson Valley and his role in making them a reality. Among the topics he discussed were the extension of the runway at Stewart, the Con Edison Project and the Lloyd Nuclear Power Plant. Also, the status of the merchandise distribution center earmarked for the Newburgh area. "This job will provide many jobs in the 40th district," he predicted.

Schermerhorn is opposed in his bid for reelection by Democratic mayor of Highland Falls, King James Weyant and Liberal candidate Paul Atkinson of Kingston.

Favors Rail Bond Act

CORNWALL State Senator Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th Dist.) has issued a statement urging voters to approve the $250 million Rail Preservation Bond Act on the November ballot.

Schermerhorn said the bond's passage could save many miles of railroad in the Mid-Hudson area, including the Wallkill Valley and Catskill Mountain Branches of the Penn Central. He also said bond issue funds would allow the restoration of the Poughkeepsie Bridge and aid commuter service in Rockland County. "With a revived rail net, we in the Mid-Hudson area will be in a more select position to obtain greater services and attract industries thus improving our economic stability," Schermerhorn said. "Further, we are assured that whatever federal funds and programs become available, that these sources of funds will be utilized to lessen any impact on the New York State taxpayer."

However, it was not possible to visit with every resident — but they tried.

TOM MAYONE would also like to especially thank the senior citizens and the veteran groups for their warm response. Tom has pledged to initiate a 24-hour emergency phone for senior citizens and increased patrol activity.

Vote Stakes Are High for Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has more at stake in Tuesday's elections than any candidate running for office.

His prestige, career, and administration are involved, even though his job is not. That may help explain his campaign barnstorming.

Day by day, for the next two years, Ford will have to deal with the Congress elected Tuesday. It is not a pleasant prospect for a president who has no mandate from the people on his own.

The outlook is for Democrats to increase majorities in both Senate and House. The size of those majorities may determine the shape and fate of anti-inflation, anti-recession, anti-tax loophole and other major legislation before the 94th Congress.

The behind-the-scenes story on health care reform indicates the stakes involved.

Health care legislation was caught in a three-way battle this term. The Nixon administration favored health care insurance administered by private companies and paid for by employers and workers.

Organized labor supported comprehensive national health insurance through the Social Security System.

The American Medical Association backed tax breaks for those who could pay for health insurance and government subsidies for those who couldn't.

In his first message to Congress, Ford asked for a health care bill before final adjournment. The sides could not agree and the last Congress had only a stalemate.

If the makeup of the next Congress is pretty much the same, the stalemate could continue. Supporters of national health insurance are counting on an influx of Democrats to put their proposal over in the next Congress.

The veto is another example of what is at stake. In three weeks of campaigning which will include 19 states, Ford appealed to the voters not to send a "veto-proof Congress" to Washington and upset the checks and balance system.

If Ford runs for president in 1976, as he expects, he will need Republican governors to provide the political base for a successful bid.

Republicans are currently expected to lose their hold on powerhouse states such as California and New York and possibly Massachusetts and Michigan as well.

If that happens, the Democrats would control the nation's 10 most populous states.

More Candidates Get Endorsements

NEW YORK CITY — With the 1974 election campaign winding toward its Nov. 5 conclusion, the following candidates have received the following recently-announced endorsements:

Conservative candidate for the U.S. Senate Barbara

Keating, from the Steuben Society of America, the Grand Council of Steuben Associations, and the independent "New Era Democratic Club" of Brooklyn.

Democratic candidate for Congress from the 25th District Nick Angell, from incumbent Democrat Congressman Ogden Reid of Purchase.

Republican incumbent Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, from incumbent Republican State Senator Edwyn E. Mason of the 48th district and Teamsters Joint Council No. 16.

Incumbent Republican-Liberal State Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley Jr., from Lefkowitz.

Incumbent Democratic State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, from the New York State United Teachers and the Building and Construction Trades Council of Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

Incumbent Republican-Conservative State Senator Richard E. Schermerhorn (40th District), from the Uniformed Firefighters Association Local 94, the New York State Professional Fire Fighters Association, the Uniformed Fire Officers Association Local 854, and the New York State United Teachers.

Maurice Hinchey, Democratic candidate for the State Assembly for the 101st District, from the Communications Workers of America Local 1120.

Democratic candidate for the State Assembly for the 99th District Phil Magparella, from the New York State AFL-CIO.

Mrs. Derringer Coordinator for Absentee Ballot

KINGSTON — Mrs. Marguerite Derringer of 253 Washington Avenue, Kingston, has been appointed Ulster County coordinator of a three-pronged campaign to reach every Republican or prospective Republican voter who needs an absentee ballot, according to Mrs. Eunice B. Whittlesey, vice-chairman of the Republican State Committee.

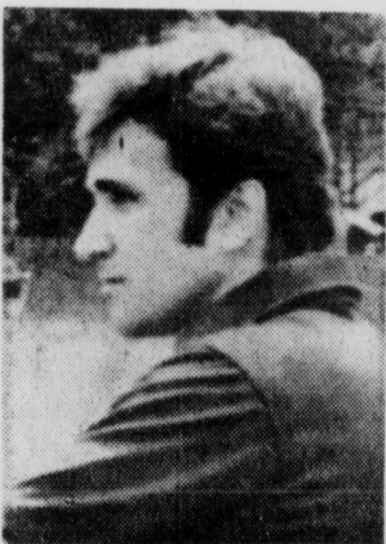

The three groups which have joined in the campaign are the Young Republican Clubs, Senior Republican Action Committees and the Women's Republican Clubs.

Mrs. Derringer said that generally if a person is registered but unable to appear to vote in person on Election Day because of duties, occupation, business or vacation, illness or physical disability then the person is eligible to vote by absentee ballot.

The person must ask the County Board of Elections to send an absentee ballot application, must properly fill it out and sign and deliver the application to the Board of Elections, and after an absentee ballot is received, must vote, sign and deliver the ballot to the Board of Elections, Mrs. Derringer said.

Provenzano-Brennan Nuptial Vows Exchanged

MRS. KEVIN JAMES BRENNAN
(Laurinda Beatrice Provenzano)
(Lakeside Studio)

Laurinda Beatrice Provenzano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Provenzano of 27 Tricot Avenue, New Paltz, became the bride of Kevin James Brennan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brennan, Guilford Schoolhouse Road, New Paltz.

The Rev. Joseph Hickey officiated at the ceremony October 19 at St. Joseph's Church in New Paltz. Anthony Aiello, organist, accompanied Phil Lecesse who sang wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a satin faced organza and Venice lace gown styled with a transparent yoke and bishop sleeves trimmed with Venice lace and pearls. The gown featured a cathedral train. A Juliet cap accented with matching lace and pearls held her blusher and veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of mint green carnations, yellow roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Mrs. Eileen Nardella, sister of the bridegroom, Pennsylvania, was honor attendant in a yellow crepe knit gown with a gold velvet collar and cuffs. A gold velvet Juliet cap held her veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow, mint green carnations, pink roses and baby's breath.

Attendants were Miss Donna Provenzano, sister of the bride; Miss Susan Althenn, Miss Karen Davidson, Miss Lisa Andradez, all of New Paltz; and Mrs. Sandy Brennan, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Pennsylvania. Miss Kim Ringler was flower girl. Attendants' mint green gowns and headpieces were similar in styling the honor attendants and they carried bouquets of mint green carnations, yellow roses and baby's breath. The flower girl was gowned identically to the matron of honor. She wore a wreath of miniature mint green carnations and yellow roses in her hair and carried a basket of mint green and yellow carnations, pink roses and baby's breath.

Michael Pagano of New City was best man. Ushers were Mark Provenzano, Jack Provenzano, brothers of the bride; Rick Brough, all of New Paltz; Robert DeRogatis, New City; Patrick Brennan, Pennsylvania. Robert Provenzano, brother of the bride, served as ringbearer.

A reception was given at Meadowbrook Lodge, Vails Gate.

The bride, a graduate of New Paltz High School, is employed at State University College at New Paltz. Her husband, also an alumnus of New Paltz High School, attended New England Aeronautical Institute and is also employed at SUNY, New Paltz.

The couple will reside at Roxanne Boulevard, Highland.

Couple Observes 40th Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL A. AIELLO of Flatbush Road, Glasco, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary recently. The couple renewed their vows at an 8 a. m. Mass in St. Joseph's Church at Glasco. The Rev. Michael Cahir officiated. Married in St. Joseph's Church Oct. 21, 1934 by the Rev. Joseph E. Riveralie, now deceased, their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vigna. A party was given at Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties. The gala was hosted by the couple's children and spouses: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spade, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Aiello Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Aiello. Mr. and Mrs. Aiello also have six grandchildren. Approximately 115 relatives and friends were in attendance. The couple received many gifts and congratulatory messages. (Glendale Studio)

Culinary Institute Chef to Teach Class at YMCA

The YMCA announces a class in Bread, Rolls and Pastries to be taught by Noble Masi, pastry chef and lecturer at the Culinary Institute of America, Hyde Park. The five week class will start Wednesday, Nov. 6 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Y, 209 Clinton Avenue.

The interest in home baking has increased over the years as cooks have concentrated on wholesome cooking. Inflation, too, has had its influence as the cost of store-purchased breads has increased.

Students will concentrate on yeast leavened products including danish and pastries. Class members will bring home samples; the fee will include all supplies.

Mr. Masi has studied at the Food and Maritime Trades High School, New York City;

Wilton School of Cake Decorating, Chicago, and the New York University Industrial Teacher Training. He has been pastry chef at Buzzco Catering Service and Miami Shores Bakery, as well as bakery manager at Fair-Mart Food Stores. He has been executive chef at Point-O-Pines, Brant Lake. He is a former instructor at the Food and Maritime High School and is a former Director of Education of The American Culinary Federation. Mr. Masi has also taught Cake Decorating at the YMCA.

More information may be obtained by calling the YMCA, a member agency of the United Way of Ulster County.

Local Resident Hears from The White House

When the news broke about Betty Ford's problem with breast cancer, a Kingston resident sat down immediately and wrote her an encouraging note.

Mrs. Lenore B. Willis of 2 Main Street wanted to let Mrs. Ford know that she also had faced the same operation 15 years ago in Coral Gables, Fla.

"I had a mastectomy 15 years ago, the same as yours, and I am still alive," Mrs. Willis wrote. The Kingston woman felt a person-to-person relationship was extremely important.

Mrs. Willis never expected a reply but on October 25 a card, signed by both Betty Ford and President Gerald R. Ford, was posted to her from Washington, D.C. In it, the Fords said: "Our family deeply appreciates your message of prayerful concern and friendship. Your good wishes extended to us during this illness have been most heartwarming."

Mrs. Willis, who describes herself as "64 years young," has framed the card from The White House. "It thought it was such a wonderful thing for them to do," she told The Freeman.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've always been very proud of the fact that my family came to Massachusetts from England in 1637. My husband says it's nothing to brag about because the people who came here then were all criminals who had been run out of England.

My husband is of Italian descent. His parents didn't come here until 1900, but he claims he came from "royalty." He says that years ago when an Italian nobleman would get a peasant girl pregnant, the nobleman would leave her illegitimate baby on someone's doorstep. My husband says that he was such a child because his name, when translated, is the one given to those abandoned babies.

Anyway, I want to know whether I should be proud of my ancestry or ashamed? And how about my husband?

DEAR NEW ENGLANDER: Intelligent, discerning people don't judge others by what their ancestors did, so don't take any bows, or accept any blame for yours.

As I see it, the only aristocracy worth bragging about is the aristocracy of achievement. Everyone must stand on his own record.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's secretary has given him many costly gifts, ranging from travel accessories to art during the two years she has worked for him. Some of the cards she has enclosed with these gifts have been embarrassingly personal.

I feel certain she is pursuing him, although he says he thinks I'm mistaken.

This young woman is divorced and has two children, and I know she could put her money to better use than buying gifts for my husband.

And I wish she would. How do we let her know?

PUZZLED IN N.J.: This is not a job for "we" — your husband should handle it alone. And if he really wants to discourage further gift giving, he will — too sweet!

DEAR ABBY: About six weeks ago, I met an insurance agent who happened to call at my door. I don't usually invite strangers in, but this man seemed exceptionally nice. Also, being single, I was more interested in him than I was in insurance.

After talking to him, I learned that he is new in town, and recently divorced.

First I invited him to my home for dinner, then he invited me out, and we've been dating ever since. After six weeks of enjoying each other's company he still hasn't invited me to see where he lives. I've hinted, but he hasn't offered. He spends too much time with me to be married, so that can't be the reason. Abby, why doesn't he want me to see where he lives?

I enjoy his company, and he takes me out a lot, but should I continue to invite him to my home when he never invites me to his?

DEAR BOTHERED: He could be living in a cheap rooming house or an apartment of which he isn't very proud. As a newly divorced man he may have taken a financial beating, and is trying to get on his feet again. Don't fault him. You've known him only six weeks. Give him more time.

Dear Heloise:

I frequently read articles as to what to do when a button falls off. My best idea is to avoid it.

I have three active young children and sew almost all their clothes, my clothes, jackets and slacks for my husband, time permitting.

I hate to sew on buttons let alone sew them on when they fall off so here is my method of "never-fall-off buttons."

I double my thread, thread the needle, double it again then tie the knot. This way you have to sew through the button only half as much. When done, leave a four-inch end. Tie a knot, thread your needle and pull your knot between the two layers of material under your button. Then snip off excess thread.

Hiding your knot keeps it from going through the eye of the button.

What to Wear When You're Cleaning House

By HELOISE
WHAT TO YOU WEAR
WHEN YOU'RE
CLEANING HOUSE?

Dear Folks:

Housewives wear slacks, jeans, skirts and shorts when they clean house. But these items don't seem to create the laundry and ironing problem that blouses do.

You can put on a clean blouse in the morning and by noon it will look as if it had been worn three days! Splashes from dishwashing or cleaning the bathroom, plus the spatters at the stove, are what get blouses dirty.

I made "cleaning blouses" out of some bath towels and they are wonderful for blotting up the spots and spatters. The spots don't show, the blouses require no ironing, perspiration absorbs quickly without leaving a ring, and they always look nice. Plus all that, they're really comfortable!

These sack blouses can be made in about ten minutes. They can be worn with anything, are cool in the summer and warm in the winter, and can be topped with a sweater when it's extra chilly.

Just take a bath towel, fold in half, cut out a hole for the neck, turn neck opening under and stitch about three times (or bind) and sew the sides up, leaving room for the arm opening! That's all. (Women with large chest measurements might want to add side darts.)

HINTS FROM Heloise

Neck lines may be round or square. Or "V" type! I personally like the "V" type best. They are easier to make and hang on the shoulders better. Be sure to make the hole for the neck big enough so that it will slide over your head when you have all those rollers and pincurls in your hair!

If you want to make the blouse exceptionally pretty, the edges of the sleeve opening may be turned under and stitched a few times. This adds a professional touch. The quickest and easiest way to hem the sleeve openings is to do it before you sew the sides up. Try leaving the sides open about four inches from the bottom for an oriental look.

After making five of these cleaning blouses, I would like to pass on a few more hints before you indulge.

Don't go and buy an expensive heavy bath towel. I did, and that was a mistake! It is too heavy, doesn't hang as easily as a used one...

besides, you need the new towel in your linen stock. New and heavy bath towels do not absorb perspiration, nor do they dry as fast as old ones. You want to be able to wipe your hands on the blouse when the phone rings and you are in the midst of dishwashing. Also heavy bath towels take up more room in the washing machine (cost more to send out, too!), and it takes more soap and water to launder them.

If you must buy a towel to make a blouse, be sure it is cheap, thin and on sale! Watch for a bargain. You're not going to wear your cleaning blouse to a bridge party or a church social.

The best thing I found was... pockets! Put pockets in your cleaning blouse. The more the better. They will save many steps in the long run. Pockets hold tissues, your packages of gum, the pencil Dad used for the crossword puzzle last night and left on the table... just about anything.

Picture's Not Rosy in North Tarrytown

NORTH TARRYTOWN, N.Y., supplies the entire East Coast GM, America's largest auto manufacturer, expects to receive $95 million in new cars this week from unemployment in the area. The patrons at the Pontiac Venturas, GM's economy car plant, said exactly who will be laid off and perhaps another small cluster of workers will be laid off. But patrons of the tavern $70 a week guaranteed from say anyone with less than 11 GM by the union contract. years experience will be out of work. "Go out to the parking lot out back and count all the foreign cars," said a burly foreman and took bread from my mouth, good to me, but I guess good times are over." "That may be so," the worst of it," Ascani said in a frustrated tone. "That night shift dinner break was real bad for a while," another worker interjected. "Don't worry, Frank," one grease stained workman said. "Last year when they had the one week layoffs during the gasoline shortage around Christmas I thought I saw the worst of it." "Well be back in six months—you have to be an optimist."

Guinness' Book... New Record

LONDON (UPI) — The world's tallest building is in Warsaw, the world's longest moustache is another inch longer, and the Guinness Book of Records is now the all-time world best-seller among copyrighted books.

"New editions in Portuguese and Serbo-Croat out this week plus another in Finland put us just past Spock," said Norris McWhirter, editor of the records book, published this week.

He said the book of superlatives now has sold 23,916,000 copies, passing the old record set by Dr. Benjamin Spock's "Baby and Child Care." "When the new U.S. paperback edition of 3 million copies comes out in January we shall, as they say in racing parlance, leave Spock for dead," McWhirter said.

McWhirter, with his twin brother Ross, now has edited 21 editions of the Guinness Book of Records, updating each to take account of the fact that the world's tallest tree grows another foot each year—it's a California redwood standing 272 feet—and the longest moustache adds another inch—it's worn by a Briton and its last measurement was 48 inches.

"A book of superlatives is rather like painting a bridge," said Ross McWhirter. "As soon as you've finished you have to start all over again."

Thus the world's tallest building is now listed as a Warsaw radio mast towering 2,119 feet.

Ernest Turner of Ramsgate, a 95-year-old canteen worker, now gets in as having the longest recorded working career, stretching 88 years.

His son gets up at 6:30 every morning to drive dad to work. The son himself is an old age pensioner.

As always, the main joy of the Guinness Book of Records is in the odd extra facts it prints to expand its odd record listings.

Of Brazilian Raimundo Canauba, who has fathered a record 125 children, the book notes the family needs two buses for transport and preserves for posterity Canauba's comment "I don't know why people make such a fuss."

The longest baggage blow on record was 50 hours at Aberdeen University.

C. Roberts of Eastbourne, England, grew a tomato weighing 4 pounds, 4 ounces, one pound more than the previous record.

The world's top salary of $337,000 a year was earned by an American, but as the new Guinness edition notes, the Emir of Kuwait was collecting oil royalties at the rate of $6 million a week as long ago as 1965.

A Discovery Promises Help For Diabetics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — University of California researchers have discovered a new treatment which they say promises to cut down the dangers of blindness, heart trouble and kidney failure in diabetics.

Five million persons suffer from diabetes, which ranks fifth in the leading causes of death by disease. Dr. Peter H. Forsham, director of the Metabolic Research Unit at the university's San Francisco branch, Wednesday said the new treatment involves a combination of insulin, long in general use by diabetics, and a new drug called somatostatin.

Diabetes is a disease that affects the production of two hormones—insulin and glucagon. Both are secreted by the pancreas.

Insulin lowers the release of sugar by the liver, and glucagon raises it. When a person has diabetes, his insulin secretion is deficient while his glucagon secretion is excessive.

"Insulin injection reduces the production of sugar, but does not affect glucagon secretion, and it has not been possible previously to effectively control blood sugar levels with insulin alone," Forsham said.

Ray Killed For Notoriety

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Slew the Dreamer" said in a deposition read Thursday at a federal court hearing into Ray's appeal for a new trial.

Huie said he undertook the book to find out "what happened in the murder and who was involved," but gave up the conspiracy theory months before Ray admitted firing the sniper shot into King's neck April 4, 1968.

"I know and knew after Oct. 15 (1968) nobody else was involved except Ray," Huie said. "Ray assumed his story would be worth a fortune Ray never bought any pig in a sack. He knew exactly what he was getting."

Ray contends Huie persuaded his former defense lawyers, Arthur Hanes Sr., of Birmingham, Ala., and later Percy Foreman, of Houston, Tex., to keep him off the witness stand to preserve profits from the book.

But Huie said he made only $4,461 in royalties from the book through Dec. 31, 1973, because when Ray pleaded guilty March 10, 1969, there was "no story."

Council Hears Planner

KINGSTON Charles Killpack, a graduate student at the Harvard School of Design in Landscape Architecture and Planning, was guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Environmental Management Council. Killpack, who will serve the Council as a consultant for its resource inventory and land use plan, described the several methods by which an inventory can be made, including computerized processing of data and colored map overlays. Killpack, presently working for the National Science Foundation on a land use plan for southeastern Massachusetts, also is involved in an environmental inventory on Martha's Vineyard Island off the Massachusetts coast.

Mrs. Shirley Kobran, Council president, asked representatives of the various towns at the meeting at Statewide Savings and Loan to submit data that could be incorporated into the resource inventory.

The council has extended until Dec. 10 its deadline for entries in its "Dirty Pictures" contest. The contest, designed to expose the "greatest insult to Ulster County's environment," will give a $50 first prize, a $25 second prize, and five three-year subscriptions to the New York State Conservationist magazine for photos depicting some form of air, water, or land pollution in Ulster County. Full details may be had by writing to the Council at Uptown P.O. Box 521, County Office Building, Kingston.

A Pacemaker Plus

KINGSTON Area cardiac patients wearing life-saving pacemakers have an added new lease on life now that Benedictine Hospital has acquired equipment that enables a person with a pacemaker implant to "plug in and call up" the hospital on the telephone to get a medical appraisal of their latest electrocardiogram which they have taken themselves and to checkup on their pacemaker batteries.

The "Cordis Commucor" is actually a receiving and transmitting unit for patients with permanently implanted cardiac pacemakers. Patients, given a small carrying case-sized piece of equipment may take it home and periodically plug into it and then phone in their electrocardiogram which is transmitted by sound waves to the hospital.

The cardiogram is then read by Benedictine Hospital Medical Director Dr. John A. Olivet, cardiologist, and the results of the information are transmitted to the patient's physician. Two such units are currently in use and it is expected that more will be pressed into service as patients come in and have battery changes and their doctors recommend use of the new cardiac equipment.

The service is available to any patients who already have their doctor's approval. According to Cheryl Richter, head nurse in the intensive care and coronary care units as well as the post coronary care floor at Benedictine, patients using equipment will phone in electrocardiograms for periodic checks every two months for the first six months, then weekly at the first six months and then monthly for seven to 15 months, to be changed. The average then every two weeks for 16 battery lasts up to 24 months.

I can show you how to make New York State work for your business.

My job is to keep track of all the advantages available to business. There are four benefits recently signed into law by Governor Wilson designed to help your business no matter how big or small it is.

- The investment tax credit for new or expanded production facilities has been doubled from one to two percent. It is also applicable to the cost of research and pollution-control equipment.
- The New York Job Development Authority has increased its participation in loans to build or expand industrial plants from 30 to 40 percent and may now participate in the financing of machinery and equipment in new facilities.
- The carton tax has been repealed, while another measure now broadens the exemption from State sales tax for the cost of production equipment.
- And the 2.5 percent surcharge on the State's personal income tax has been suspended for another year.

As regional manager for the New York State Department of Commerce, I want to show you how these measures and many others can help your business.

This is a free service of the Department of Commerce, and it's confidential. If you have any questions, contact me. And while you're thinking about it, attach the coupon below to your letterhead and mail it.

Mr. Mayone — You can fool some of the people all of the time, all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time.

SO WHY DON'T YOU STOP TRYING TO FOOL THEM!!

It took the State Commission of Correction 3½ months (July 15-Oct. 28) to return the new list of prisoner rules sent to them for approval. Yet this was one of the violations listed on the last inspection . . . the old rules were posted as required. EVERY LAST ONE OF THEIR REGULATIONS ARE BEING COMPLIED WITH AS FAR AS IS HUMANLY POSSIBLE AT THIS TIME WITH THE MANPOWER WE HAVE. (I asked the legislature for an absolute minimum of 12 men and a maximum of 40 until the end of the year, they gave me 12.)

U. C. LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE: "No chain of command"—WE HAVE A CHAIN OF COMMAND THAT WORKS, despite Monday morning quarterbacking. THE MEN ON DUTY KNOW WHAT TO DO WHEN I'M NOT IN THE BUILDING. "Sheriff used inmates at his residence for manual labor"—THOSE INMATES WERE PART OF THE WORK RELEASE PROGRAM and I PAID FOR THEIR LABOR JUST LIKE ANY OTHER EMPLOYER OF THE WORK RELEASE PROGRAM and by check. "New Paltz bank account"—There is no secret about the account—all expenditures made by check. THE GRAND JURY FOUND NO CAUSE WHATSOEVER FOR ANY ACTION FOR ANY OF THE THINGS THE LEGISLATURE SENT TO IT. Mayone shows his complete lack of integrity when he persists in using these allegations in his talks and ads.

AND NOW FOR MR. MAYONE'S OWN WORDS TO SHOW HOW UNFIT HE IS FOR SHERIFF (from green flyer, N.P. Independent, Daily Freeman)

"METROPOLITAN PROBLEMS ARE FAST APPROACHING" he says—WHERE'S HE BEEN? THEY'RE HERE NOW FOR SOME YEARS. "I will cut unnecessary manpower," he says. THIS AT THE VERY TIME the Commission is telling me something I already know—THE DEPT. IS UNDERMANNED. "Programs for making 'happy, contented' prisoners," he says. HOW??? He has already said he would cut the manpower. WHO WILL PROVIDE THE SECURITY NECESSARY TO SUPERVISE THESE PROGRAMS? "Will provide substations," he says. HOW?? The Legislature says it is tired of putting taxpayers' money into the Sheriff's operation.

Those years as a deputy in the days when it was a political bog and all those seminars haven't taught him a thing—HE STILL THINKS IN CIRCLES!!!!

Schedule Catches Up With Bullets

By United Press International

What the rest of the NBA couldn't accomplish, the schedule maker did.

The Washington Bullets, play their third game in three nights in three different cities, lost their first contest of the season after seven wins Thursday night when they bowed to the Houston Rockets 95-92.

Dave Wohl hit three free throws in the final 13 seconds to secure the Rocket victory. Houston led 92-90 with 19 seconds left and Wohl, who scored 29 points to lead the Rockets, was fouled by Wes Unseld. The 6-2 guard made the first of two attempts, but was fouled again and made both free throws seconds after Phil Chenier made a bucket for the Bullets.

Chenier tied Wohl for high point honors, and Bullets guard Kevin Porter added 18.

Houston forward Rudy Tomjanovich got 17 points, and the Rockets counted on Zaid Abdul-Aziz for a game high 19 rebounds.

In the only other National Basketball Association games, New York edged Atlanta 93-90 and Cleveland smothered Detroit 118-101.

Knicks 93, Hawks 90
Earl Monroe's game-high 35 points paced New York over Atlanta. The Knicks' other starting guard, Walt Frazier, was injured in the first minute of play and will be out for five to seven days. Frazier's left eye was scratched and he was sent to the hospital for further examination. The Hawks were led by rookie John Drew's 27 points.

Cavs 118, Pistons 101

Austin Carr tallied 33 points and Bobby Smith had 19 for the Cavs in their triumph over Detroit. The Cavs, trailing by 10 points midway through the second period, shot a sizzling 65 per cent in the third quarter and went ahead to stay 61-60 on a pair of foul shots by Dick Snyder with 2:26 gone in the second half.

Detroit's Bob Lanier canned 13 of 16 from the field in the first half for a 31 point effort that gave the Pistons a 58-55 halftime lead. But the big center was held to only 10 points in the second half.

Rangers Learning It Won't Be Easy

The New York Rangers aren't finding the new, watered-down National Hockey League set-up quite as cozy as in years past.

The Rangers, a sure-shot for a playoff berth in recent years in the NHL's old Eastern Division, found themselves locked in with the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, the neighboring Islanders of Long Island and the young but improving Atlanta Flames.

"Okay," Ranger fans said, "we'll buy that. So we don't beat out Philadelphia. All we have to do is beat out one of the other two patsies to make the playoffs."

Wednesday night, one of those two patsies, the Islanders, tied the Rangers 1-1 to insure their lock on first place in division 1. Then Thursday night the Rangers ran into Philadelphia and the outcome was predictable, Flyers 5, Rangers 1.

Suddenly, the Rangers are tied with Atlanta for last place in the division.

In other NHL games, Montreal blanked Washington 3-0 and St. Louis tied Los Angeles 1-1. In the World Hockey Association, New England whipped Indianapolis 6-1, Cleveland downed Michigan 4-2 and San Diego edged Chicago 4-3.

Flyers 5, Rangers 1
Bill Clement and Ross Lonsberry each scored their second goal of the game during a four-goal uprising in the second period. Bernie Parent lost his bid for his first 74 shutout when Bobby Rousseau scored for the Rangers on a third period power play.

Canadiens 3, Capitals 0

No Merger, Rozelle Says

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle has issued a strong "forget it" to those World Football League fans hopful of seeing their local franchises absorbed by the established league in the event of the new league's collapse.

"There will be no complete nor partial merger with the WFL," Rozelle said Thursday, taking the hard line toward the new league and its latest financial plight. "Nor will any of its teams be taken into the NFL."

"I say this very strongly and with complete certainty, even more certainly than I said it about the American Football League."

Rozelle's announcement came shortly after the word that Birmingham, long believed to be one of the strongest WFL franchises, was in financial trouble. Already the WFL has folded up franchises in Detroit and Jacksonville shifted the New York and Houston teams and taken over the Orlando team.

While writing off any thoughts of absorbing the Memphis, Hawaii or Birmingham franchises from the WFL, Rozelle instead announced plans Wednesday for the addition of four teams to the NFL, two in 1976 and two more that year or later. That would bring the league to 30 teams.

Tampa, Fla., and Seattle were chosen to begin operation in 1976. Tom McCloskey, a builder and realtor, was selected to head the Tampa franchise Wednesday but the owners failed to agree upon an owner for the Seattle franchise Thursday.

A group headed by Herman Sarkowsky, owner of the NBA's Portland Trailblazers, is considered to be the leading contender for that Seattle team. "We've got our own expansion plans," Rozelle said. "There would be just nothing in it for the NFL to take two of the WFL's teams. They're either going to make it or not make it on their own. They're not going to get any help from us."

The WFL has not filed any major suits against the NFL yet as the AFL did when it attempted to force a merger in the early 1960s and Rozelle, with a sarcastic smile, said "they're playing it cozier this time."

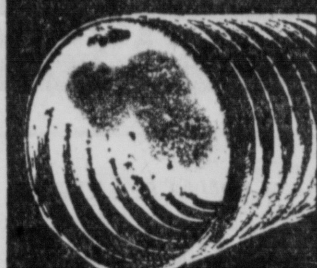

Rozelle also said no WFL players would be allowed to jump to the NFL and play this season either because the WFL season ended or because they were otherwise free agents. Rozelle said that this was only an extension of a policy already in effect in regard to the Canadian leagues and the minor leagues and was continued to include the WFL so that no NFL would be able to stock their teams during the last part of the season with new players.

Referee: 'There Was No Quick Count'

NEW YORK (UPI) — "There was no quick count. And there was no loosening of the ropes. It sounds to me like George Foreman is just looking for an out."

With those words Zach Clayton, the third man in the ring when Muhammad Ali knocked out George Foreman to win back the heavyweight championship in Zaire, hoped to put an end to a growing controversy paralleled in boxing history only by the Gene Tunney-Jack Dempsey "long count" bout in 1927.

Clayton, 51, returned to his home in Philadelphia Thursday satisfied he had done his job well refereeing the "rumble in the jungle" in Kinshasa Wednesday morning. But he soon found himself accused by Foreman of having administered a quick count when he counted the 25-year old former champion out at 2:58 of the eighth round.

"My head was clear at four," said Foreman Thursday. "In my mind I picked it up at four and beat the count."

Clayton gives a different version.

"The count begins the second his knee touches the canvas," Clayton said. "As soon as Foreman went down I turned around to direct Ali to a neutral corner. He started in that direction and that was good enough for me. He doesn't have to be standing exactly in the corner for the count to begin."

"I whirled around and picked up the count just before the tick of three. He was laying on his back at four and was still on his back at five. When I said six he started to stir. No way in the world a person exhausted and hurt could make an attempt to clear the deck when he's still on his back at six. I even shouted the count right in his ear to wake him up. Sometimes you can do that."

"Foreman rolled over. He was in the center of the ring so he couldn't grab onto the ropes to help himself up. He had nothing to reach for and he was in no condition to jump up. I was still shouting the numbers at him but he was turning over slowly. When I reached nine he was on his knees. When I reached 10 he still had one hand or one knee. I forget which, on the canvas. Either way, he wasn't standing."

Clayton said he was puzzled and disturbed over Foreman's comments and even more surprised to hear that Ali was not certain either.

"I don't really know," Ali said of Foreman's accusation. "He may be right. I don't know. The referee's the man who made the decision."

Foreman also complained that Ali's handlers loosened the ropes, on which Ali relied for much of the fight to nullify the force of Foreman's punches, and that the canvas was too soft.

"I checked the ropes and walked all around the mat checking for soft spots before the fight," said Clayton, "and so did Dick Sadler, Foreman's trainer. Nobody had anything to complain about. The ropes were tight and the mat was regulation. As a matter of fact it was Ali's corner that asked me, I think about the fifth or sixth round, to tighten up the ropes. Ali was leaning against them so much they loosened up a little and that was not good for Ali. Before the sixth round I told someone to tighten the ropes by my corner and if the round started to keep tightening them."

"There was no quick count. And there was no loosening of the ropes. It sounds to me like George Foreman is just looking for an out."

"And the funny thing is, I talked to George after the fight. I went up to his hotel room the next day and Sadler was there with George. I told George I was sorry he lost and that he was still young, he had youth on his side, and maybe someday he'd get the title back. He and Sadler both thanked me for handling the fight so well. They both said I did a good job and I appreciated that. They didn't say anything then about any complaints."

"Maybe George is a little embarrassed now but that's not very sportsmanlike. A man gets beat, he should admit he's beaten. Let him come back and try to win it back. But don't say you were cheated."

"Hell, George was tired around the fourth round. He was swinging like a lumberjack when he should have paced himself. He tired himself out. He was more exhausted than hurt and if the fight had kept going I think Ali might have seriously hurt him. At the point it was stopped I had Ali 4-2-1 on my cards."

Ali Has Two $10 Million Offers

KINSHASA (UPI) — London or one of the oil-rich Arab states may put up a record $10-million to stage the next world heavyweight boxing championship, according to Muhammad Ali, the man who says he won't fight for less.

Ali said shortly before leaving Zaire Thursday that he had received two $10-million offers to defend the title he took from George Foreman in an eight-round knockout here.

One came from London promoter John Daly and the other from an Arab nation whose name Ali said he promised not to disclose just yet.

"I'm gonna rest a few months before I really make an announcement but I'll consider the offer since it's so great," Ali said of Daly's offer.

"I also have another $10-million from an Arab country," Ali told newsmen. "I can only say it was an Arab country. I promised not to disclose which one."

Ali has said that if he fights again, it would not be for less than double the record $5-million he got for whipping Foreman Oct. 30.

Ali has not said who his opponent might be—Foreman or archrival Joe Frazier—but friends in his camp said he's got his sights on Joe.

Ali has lost to Frazier once and beaten him once and the friends said Ali wants to make the score 2-1 before retiring. Ali said he wouldn't dispute Foreman's claim that he had been short-changed on the count that cost him the title but left him—like Ali—$5-million richer (before taxes).

"I don't really know," said Ali. "He (Foreman) may be right. The referee's the man who made the decision."

But, Ali added, even a longer count wouldn't have done George Foreman any good. "He would have been down again because I was fresh. I wasn't tired. I could have gotten him the second time with no trouble."

Foreman said Wednesday he had been the victim of a short count—8½ seconds instead of 10

—and that he could have continued fighting. While Ali hopped on a special plane to Rome enroute home, Foreman remained secluded in Kinshasa's downtown Intercontinental Hotel. He was expected to stay on in Zaire for a few days.

Although Ali would not elaborate on the Arab purse offer, it was rumored to have come from oil-rich Kuwait which reportedly had been one of the bidders for this week's fight.

Daly, 35, is a London businessman and son of a former professional boxer. He originally agreed to put up $1.5-million "risk" money for the Kinshasa fight through the London based Hemdale Company.

Bowie Kuhn Visits Japan; Says Aaron Is HR Champ

TOKYO (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said today the major leagues will not recognize Sadaharu Oh, Japan's home run king, as the World's new home run champion even if he eventually overtakes Hank Aaron's home run total.

"We do not recognize records other than those established in the major leagues," Kuhn said. "But that doesn't mean that we do not have a great deal of respect for Oh's accomplishment."

We think he is a terrific ball player."

Kuhn and his wife arrived Thursday as guests of the Yomiuri Shimbun newspaper, which is sponsoring the 18-game goodwill series in Japan of the New York Mets.

Kuhn said he was "looking forward to the home run hitting contest between Aaron and Oh Saturday. 'I can't say who will win.'"

Aaron, 40, who arrives

tonight, and Oh, 34, will engage in the duel for half an hour Saturday at the Korakuen Stadium before the Mets-Japan all star game.

The contest will be decided by homers made on 20 swings each. Aaron will select a Met Pitcher and Oh a Yomiuri Giants pitcher.

"Each pitcher will try to deliver the best pitch for a home run," Kuhn said.

It has been reported that the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) will pay Aaron $50,000, win or lose, and Oh $20,000.

Aaron has 733 home runs, 19 more than the long standing record of Babe Ruth. Oh has 634 in 16 seasons but he has said he will play six more years. He has averaged 40 homers a season. That means if he hits 40 a year in the next six seasons, he will have had 240, increasing his total to 874 and topping Aaron's record by a good margin. Whether Aaron will play in 1975 is uncertain.

Kuhn said it is not conceivable for Japan to become a part of the major league structure but it will take years because of conditions in Japan and travel limitations. "There are 24 teams in the major leagues now but there is bound to be further expansion," Kuhn said. "I see Hawaii as a spot for the expansion and that will be a stepping stone for Japan to become a member of the major leagues."

Kuhn, who was last here when the Baltimore Orioles played in a goodwill series in 1971, said, "Japanese ball players have shown great improvement and this is not mere diplomatic talk. It has been shown by the failure of the New York Mets 11.

to win a game in the five games they have played so far with the Yomiuri Giants."

I said it was probably due to the fact that the Mets had been idle for three weeks before coming to Japan and manager Yogi Berra did not want to injure the arms of his pitchers by letting them go the full distance. Kuhn agreed, saying "pitching and not hitting was the Mets' strong factor this past season."

He said it was difficult for Japan to become a part of the major league structure because there are only 12 teams in Japan, six each in the Central and Pacific League, and no one team would be able to participate in the major leagues in the conceivable future.

Kuhn said he saw two other possibilities for what he called "official play" between Japan and the major leagues.

"I see a definite possibility for a world series between the winning teams in the major leagues and that of Japan," Kuhn said. "That I know has been the dream of Matsutaro Shoriki, the founder of Japanese professional baseball in 1934. But I don't think we will be ready for that in five years. When the Japanese are ready for it, I am sure there will be little differences between the level of the American and Japanese teams."

"As to the other possibility there can be an all star game between the major leagues and Japan," Kuhn said. "It will be a one game affair. The difficulty is the time to stage it. It will be difficult during the season because of the travel necessary. Perhaps, the best time would be after the season this is not mere diplomatic talk. It has been shown by the failure of the New York Mets 11.

Kuhn will be here until Nov. 11.

OCS Assured Tie

KINGSTON — The final period when Bob Coleman got two goals from Glenn Link and another off a penalty kick by A. J. Maneen to slam the door on Rondout. That moved the Statesmen into a second place tie with New Paltz and opened the possibility for a three-way tie for first place.

Coleman will face Fallsburgh in its last game while New Paltz is at OCS. An Indian loss and a Statesman win means three teams finish in first. OCS only needs a tie to wrap up the title.

UCAL Special

Raiders, Bushmen Hoople's Specials

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prophet

HOOPLE MANOR
Egad, friends, do we have a couple of big ones for you this week! In fact — kaff-kaff — we can hardly wait to share the surprises with you.

After computing and re-computing our scouting reports and all available statistics, The Hoople Football Forecast predicts Red Hook will knock off undefeated Rondout Valley in schoolboy play and that Illinois will jolt the powerful Ohio State Buckeyes in college action.

Yes, dear readers, you can forget about our so-so .625 scholastic average to date (it's somewhat higher forecasting the bigger boys) and bank on this week's rewarding revelations.

Let's get right into the powerful package of professionally potent prognostications, heh-heh.

RED HOOK 28, RONDOUT VALLEY 14

This is the week Rondout's bubble bursts. No team has gone undefeated in the UCAL since the great Highland squad of 1971 and the Ganders just don't meet up to that caliber. Everyone seems to agree that this will not be a defensive game. And if we had to pick one offense to call upon in a pinch it would be that imaginative Raider regiment led by the inimitable Jim Merriken.

PINE BUSH 21, NEW PALTZ 20

Another toughie. We're leaning towards Pine Bush simply because it has played better football the last couple of times out than has New Palz, which is coming off a pair of shutouts. The home field might awaken the Hokies, but we'll take Pine Bush . . . barely.

ELLENVILLE 8, MARLBORO 6

Roll the pigskin out to the middle of the field. Take the tallest player from each side and have a jump ball. The guy who comes down with it gets to keep it and a victory for his side. The winner of this game will be the one that scores first . . . or, for that matter, scores at all.

LIBERTY 24, ONTEORA 0

The way things are going for Onteora, we hope its not looking past this game to the exciting (?) finale against Marlboro in a couple of weeks. Liberty should at least make this contest a pleasant one for some Indian fans.

HIGHLAND 30, WALLKILL 20

This promises to be an interesting free-wheeling affair with the Highland experience providing the Big Blue with an edge. Highland comes off a shutout defeat. Something like that usually doesn't sit well with Coach Lem Atkins.

KINGSTON 18, POUGHKEEPSIE 14

If we keep predicting a Kingston win long often it's bound to happen . . . even if it's next season. This is KHS's final tune-up before its battle with Saugerties next week and the Maroons must surely have enough fire within to get at least one victory under their collective belts. Who would have thought Kingston would be 0-6 going into the Poughkeepsie game?

Now . . . we've already told you about our college special. In case you forgot, it will be Illinois over Ohio State. The score? Make it 31-28, har-rumph!

Also in the Big Ten, Michigan will romp over Indiana, 34-9, and move into the No. 1 spot in the nation.

Notre Dame will handle Navy, 40-13, while Vanderbilt turns back Army, 13-7.

And in other games it will be: Air Force 27, Brigham Young 19; Alabama 30, Mississippi State 6; Princeton 14, Brown 8; Nebraska 17, Colorado 10; Cornell 22, Columbia 15; Duke 17, Georgia Tech 14; Auburn 32, Florida 21; Harvard 15, Penn 13; Oklahoma 28, Iowa State 14; Penn State 25, Maryland 21; USC 35, California 7; Pitt 24, Syracuse 21; and Yale 27, Dartmouth 6, boola-boola.

Memorial

In loving memory of Leona Gardner who passed away Nov. 1, 1970.

In all the world we shall not find a heart so wonderful and kind. So soft a voice so sweet a smile. An inspiration so worth while. A sympathy so sure so deep. A love so beautiful to keep.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Peter Scott Fattarino, on his seventh birthday today, Nov. 1.

When God calls little children, To dwell with him above, We mortals sometimes question, The wisdom of His love. God knows how much we need them, And so He takes but few. To make the land of Heaven, More beautiful to view. Believing this is difficult, Still somehow we must try. For the saddest word in all the world, Will always be "Goodbye." When our little one left, We were left behind, Try to realize God loves children, Angels are hard to find. Happy Birthday, Honey, MOMMY, DADDY, TAMMY, JODI and TONY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices opened lower today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrial average was behind 1.96 at 663.56 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances 198 to 133, among the 468 issues traded.

The blue chip indicator lost 7.51 points in the previous session following a two day rally which had carried the index 39.19 points higher. The market turnaround Thursday reflected investor gloom over news the nations money supply had decreased while farm prices increased.

Economists in Warning: Worst Is Yet to Come

The U.S. economy has been in a recession for a year now with the worst still to come, average business contraction economists said Thursday.

"The average length of all contractions (recessions) since World War II has been 11 months," said Irwin Kellner, making it "the longest economic recession since before World War II."

Ford's Plea: Oust Spenders

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Ford says the nation's voters should throw out the big spenders in Tuesday's elections — even if some are Republicans.

He sounded that nonpartisan note in the midst of a six-state tour in which he is campaigning for GOP candidates.

Ford told guests who paid $500 for a drink and $500 for dinner in Los Angeles Thursday night: "If you think it is time for a change remember next Tuesday who the big spenders are — and throw the spenders out. And if some of them are Republicans, so be it."

For the first time in his six-week stumping for the GOP, Ford looked beyond the voting Tuesday and called for persons of all parties to unite "and defeat the problems of inflation, energy, environment and foreign policy."

Until recently, few economists in and out of the government have openly defined the economic state as a recession but rather have centered their attention on inflation.

Now, most agree the problem is both recession and inflation, and some predict the United States and other industrial nations are on the brink of a depression.

"We have been hit with a moral Pearl Harbor and a political Pearl Harbor, and consequently we are hit with an economic Pearl Harbor. The name for that is depression," said Eliot Janeway.

Charles Kilpatrick, economic analyst for Lynch, Jones and Ryan brokerage house, predicts a depression by 1978.

"There's no question," said Markley Roberts, AFL-CIO economist, "if we go down the same road, the economy is going to get in worse and worse shape. We are going to have more people out of work, continued drops in consumer spending and in investment spending."

He predicted an unemployment rate of 7 per cent by next year, and Janeway said it could reach 12 per cent.

Meanwhile, unemployment in
